

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. APPENDIX I.

Extract from "Mather's Antiquities :"

"It was not long before the Massachusetts colony was become a hive overstocked with bees, and many of the new inhabitants entertained thoughts of swarming into plantations extended further into the country.

The fame of the Connecticut river, a long, fresh, rich river, as indeed the Indian name "Connecticut" is Indian for "Long river," made it a little Nilus in the expectation of the good people about the Massachusetts bay. Whereupon many of the planters belonging to the towus of Cambridge, Dorchester, Watertown and Roxbury took up resolutions to move a hundred miles for a further settlement upon this famous river.

Reader! come with me now to behold some worthy, and learned, and genteel persons going to be buried alive in the banks of the Connecticut.
* * * * So there was a great remove of good people thither.

On this remove, they that went from Cambridge became a church on a spot of ground now called Hartford; they that went from Dorchester became a church at Windsor; they that Went from Watertown sat down at Weathersfield, and they that left Roxbury were in-churched higher up the river at Springfield, at a place which was afterwards found within the lines of the Massachusetts charter. This was in 1635.

APPENDIX II.

Extract from a letter of Rev. I. N. TARBON, D. D.

Boston, Mass., July 17, 1884.

HENRY PORTER ANDREWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: I received your kind note this morning, and it occurs to me to say what perhaps I said to you by letter, some time since, though I am not quite certain.

Mr. John Porter seemingly had affinities with the Dorchester company, before it left England. He did not come over with it in 1630, nor did he join it while it remained in Dorchester, 1630-1636. He first appears at Windsor, Conn., with his wife and children, in the year 1637, and was at once treated as a man known and respected. He was put upon a committee in 1637, and was made a constable in 1639, then a high and responsible office. All the facts connected with him during his life at Windsor, indicate plainly that he was a man of substance and standing.

Many years ago I read his will, and wondered why his wife was not mentioned in it. I accepted the record of Mr. Stiles, that she died on the 12th May following, and so she would naturally have been named in such a document, but no trace of her appears in it.

It so happens that the present town clerk of Windsor is a class-mate of mine, John B. Woodford, Esq. A few years ago I spent a night at his house and was speaking to him about John Porter's will, and the curious fact that his wife was not mentioned, when thinking a moment he said that among certain errors which he had discovered in "Stiles," he thought there was one pertaining to John Porter and family, and if I would go with him to the office in the morning he would point it out.

I did so, and he showed me from the very early records that the Rose Porter, who was buried May 12, 1648, was the daughter of JOHN PORTER, and that his wife died in July, 1647.

I think that the dates I have given here, as to John Porter's arrival in this country, the date of his death, and those of his wife and daughter, will be found correct.

Very truly yours,

INCREASE N. TARBOX.

APPENDIX III.—Will of John Porter.

A particular court in Hartford, Conn., June 7, 1649. This day was presented to this court, the last will and testament of John Porter, late of Wyndsor, deceased, and the inventory of his estate, Anno 1648, Apl. 20.

"Imprimis. This is the last will and testament made by me, John Porter, of Wyndsor. Although now weak and sick in body, yet perfect in memory, do bequeathe my soule to GOD that gave it, and my body to be buried, and my goods as followeth :

Item. I give to my eldest son, John Porter, one hundred pounds, and to my second son, James Porter, I give three score pounds, and to my other six children, to wit: Samuel Porter, Rebecca Porter, Rose Porter, Mary Porter, Sarah Porter and Anna Porter, I give to them thirty pounds apiece, which is to be raised out of my whole estate, as housings, lands, cattle and household goods, and is to be paid as they come to be twenty years of age, or sooner if my overseers see just cause, without whose consent I would not have them to manage; which if they do, it shall be in the power of my overseers to abate of their portions, and give it to the others that are more deserving.

And in case of any of my children die before they be married or be twenty years of age, their portion shall be equally divided amongst the rest, unless the overseers see cause to abate it upon the eldest. In case my estate shall be found upon particular view, to rise to be more in value than these portions above given, or less than the sum, my will is that it shall be proportionally added or rebated to my children's several portions, except my overseers see cause to abate my eldest son, that hath the biggest portion, or likewise my second.

The particular goods wherein each child shall have his portion paid out of my whole estate, I leave to the direction of my overseers. My son, Joseph Judson, is to take twenty shillings of Thomas Thornton, next winter.

Also, I give fifty shillings to Wyndsor church. My desire is that my beloved friends would be the overseers of this my last will and testament, Mr. Warham of Wyndsor, Mr. Goodwin of Hartford, Goodman White of Hartford, and Matthew Griswold of Wyndsor.

Witness,

JOHN PORTER.

HENRY CLARKE,
ABIGAIL BRANKER.

APPENDIX IV.

The principal planters of Massachusetts, says Chalmers, were English country gentlemen, of no inconsiderable fortunes; of enlarged understandings, improved by liberal education; of extreme ambition, concealed under the appearance of religious humility.

The leading emigrants to Massachusetts were of that brotherhood of men who, by force of social consideration, as well as intelligence and resolute patriotism, moulded the public opinion and action of England in the first half of the sixteenth century. While the larger part stayed at home to found, as it proved, the short lived English republic, another part devoted themselves at once to the erection of free institutions in the distant wilderness.

In an important sense the associates of the Massachusetts company were builders of the British as well as the New England commonwealth. Some ten or twelve served in the Long Parliament. Of the four commoners of that parliament, distinguished by Lord Clarendon, as first in influence, Vane had been governor of the company, and Hampton, Pym and Fiennes (all patentees of Connecticut) were consulted upon its affairs, as also the Earl of Warwick, and those excellent persons, Lord Say-and-Sale and Lord Brooke, both of whom at one time proposed to emigrate.

This company's meetings placed Winthrop and his colleagues in relation with numerous persons destined to act busy parts in the stirring times that were approaching; Brereton and Hewson (afterwards two of the parliamentary major-generals) with Philip Nye, who helped Sir Henry Vane to cozen the Scottish Presbyterian commissioners, with Samuel Vassal, with John Vem, who at the head of six thousand citizens, beset the House of Lords, during the trial of Lord Strafford, and who King Charles, after the battle of Edge Hill, excluded from his offer of pardon; with Owau Rowe, the fire brand of the city; with Thomas Andrews, Lord Mayor of London, who proclaimed the abolition of royalty, and others of equal distinction.

APPENDIX V.

Rev. John Youngs, of Southold, had been minister of St. Margaret's Church, Suffolk, England. He came to America with his wife Joun and six children. They would have come to Salem, Mass., in ship "Mary Anne," from Great Yarmouth, England, in May, 1637, as is seen in the records at Westminster, England, where it is noted.

"This man was forbyden passage by the comuissioners, and went not " from Yarmouth."

"Perhaps the scrivener had no idea of a negative pregnant, as the lawyers say, but may have supposed that the power of the great archbishop, " the imperions and foolish Laud, could forever restrain the migration. As " the whole complication of ecclesiastical authority was overthrowen the " next year, the Puritan's desire was then, if not earlier, granted."

He came to New Haven, Conn., with part of his church in 1640, and began the settlement of Southold, in October of that year, where he died in 1672, aged seventy-four years.

His eldest son, John Youngs, born in England, 1623, lived in Southold, and in 1680 was sheriff of that island; member of council 1683-97; colonel of the Suffolk militia to his death, 1698, and judge of the county of "Yorkshire."

APPENDIX VI.

Allusion having been made to the "ship in the air," it may be of interest to insert the following:

The people of New Haven having built a ship, freighted and dispatched it for England with a cargo of their products. They sailed in January, 1647, and were obliged to cut their way out of the harbour through the ice. They were never heard of after. According to the belief of the period, the apparition of this ship was seen in the air after she had foundered. Rev. Cotton Mather, having heard of this belief, wrote to his friend, Rev. James Pierpont, and received the following reply :

"Rev. and Dear Sir : In compliance with your desires, I now give you the relation of that apparition of a ship in the air, which I have received from the most credible, judicious and curious surviving observers of it.

In the year 1647, besides much other lading, a far more rich treasure of passengers, (five or six of whom were persons of chief note and worth in New Haven,) put themselves on board a new ship, built at Rhode Island, of about one hundred and fifty tons, but so walthy ("crank") that the master (Lamberton) often said that she would prove their grave.

In the month of January, cutting their way through much ice, in which they were accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Davenport, besides many other friends, with many fears, as well as prayers and tears, they set sail, Mr. Davenport, in prayer, with an observable emphasis, used these words :

"Lord, if it be thy pleasure to bury these our friends in the bottom of the sea, they are thine, save them."

The spring following, no tidings of these friends arrived with the ships from England. New Haven's heart began to fail her. This put the good people on much prayer, both public and private, that the Lord would (if it was his pleasure) let them know what He had done with their dear friends, and prepare them with a suitable submission to His holy will.

In June next ensuing, a great thunder storm arose out of the northwest ; after which, the hemisphere being serene about an hour before sunset, a ship of like dimensions with the aforesaid, with her canvass and colors abroad, though the wind northerly, appeared in the air, coming up from our harbor's mouth, which lyes southward from the town, seemingly with her sails filled under a fresh gale, holding her course north, and continuing under observation, sailing against the wind for the space of half an hour.

Many were drawn to behold this great work of God, yea, the very children cried out "there's a brave ship." At length, crouding up as far as there is usually water sufficient for such vessel, and so near some of the spectators, as they imagined a man might hurl a stone on board her ; her maintop seemed to be blown off, but left hanging in the shrouds ; then her mizzen-top ; then all her masting seemed blown away by the board. Quickly after, the hulk brought into a careen, she overset, and so vanished into a smoky cloud, which in some time dissipated, leaving as everywhere else a clear air.

The admiring spectators could distinguish the several colors of each part, the principal rigging, and such proportions as caused not only the generality of persons to say "this was the mould of their ship, and this was her tragick end;" but Mr. Davenport also in public declared to the effect "That God had condescended, for the quieting of their afflicted spirits, this extraordinary account of His sovereign disposal of those for whom so many fervent prayers were made continually."

Thus I am, sir, your humble servadt,

JAMES PIERPONT."

APPENDIX VI.

Sketch of the life of Col. JOSHUA PORTER, written by himself:

Salisbury, August ye 2nd, 1820.

"I now being in ye 91st year of my age, sit down to write a short history of my life.

"I was born in Lebanon, county of Windham, State of Connecticut, on ye 26th day of June, A. D. 1730, of respectable parents. My father was a country merchant, and in ye year 1739, being in Boston, transacting his business, taking up goods, etc., he there sickened and died, being about thirty-five years old, leaving a widow and four children, two sons and two daughters, viz: Nathaniel and Joshua, Melitabel and Eunice. I am now ye only surviving one of ye children. My father, at his death, left a decent property, and after ye estate being settled it was divided among his heirs; my brother being ye oldest son took two shares. My mother lived a widow about five years and then married. I then being fourteen years old chose a guardian, to-wit, my great uncle, Peter Buell, Esq., of Coventry, with whom I lived about five years, and worked at the farming business. My brother, having had college education, took his first degree September, 1749, I being at commencement. I then determined to lay out ye small patrimony left to me by my father in getting an education. My brother settling at New Haven, I immediately repaired there, and studied under my brother, and ye next September I was examined and admitted a member of college, and in September, 1755, I was graduated, soon after which I was invited to go to Newbern, North Carolina, to keep a family school, and accordingly I went, and there remained towards a year. I then returned to Lebanon where mother lived, and soon after I went again to Coventry, and studied physic and surgery with a Doct. Josiah Rose, and after I judged I was able to commence ye practice of physic, I returned once more to Lebanon and there begun practice, but being there old practitioners my business was small. In November, 1757, hearing of ye death of Doct. Solomon Williams, of Salisbury, Conn., and there being no physician in the town, I was advised to settle there. Accordingly I went, about ye latter end of ye month, and soon went into full practice, which I followed for about forty years from ye time I went there. I boarded with one Mr. John Earle, (a respectable member of society,) until May, 1759, and in March of same year I purchased about three acres of land, with a small dwelling house and a small barn standing thereon, including a small orchard. For ye premises I gave £60 lawful money.

On ye 14th day of May, 1759, I married Abigail Buell, daughter of my aforesaid guardian, with whom I lived with ye greatest harmony, and conubial state until ye 7th day of October, 1797, at which time she died, and by whom I had six children, viz. Joshua, Abigail, Eunice, Augustus, Peter B. and Sally.

On ye 31st day of December, 1799, I married Jerusha Fitch, widow of Hezekiah Fitch, Esq., deceased, daughter of Col. Burr, of Fairfield, with whom I lived until February, 1808, at which time she died. In August following, I married Lucy, widow of Samuel Datcher, with whom I lived until August, 1814, at which time she died. She was daughter of Col. John Ashley of Sheffield, Mass.

In June, 1761, I purchased of Daniel Morris his dwelling house and one acre of land, lying at ye forking of ye road, leading from ye meeting house, and thirty-eight acres on ye east side of ye road, for which I gave £494 lawful money; and in May, 1763, I purchased of Daniel Morris one hundred and seventeen acres of land, ye remaining part of his farm, for which I gave him £190 lawful money. In 1777 I purchased of Elijah Bennett eighty-two acres of land, for which I gave him £242 lawful money. Since purchasing this land I have carried on considerable farming business, some years having sold grain, wheat, rye, corn, etc., and carried on the making of potash, for several years, at ye same time keeping a handsome stock on my farm.

In ye year 1766 (July) I was inoculated with the small pox, and in ye fall after Mr. Amos Bird, of Salisbury, set up a house in ye oblong, in which I inoculated a number of persons, having purchased ye skill of Dr. Durard, of Elizabethtown, in ye Jerseys, since which time I have inoculated a number with great success, and some considerable profit.

As to my political and public life it is as follows: Two years after I came into Salisbury I was chosen as a lister, to which office I was annually appointed for three years going. A few years after I was appointed one of ye selectmen of ye town, which office I sustained about twenty years. In September, 1765, I was chosen a representative to attend the general assembly in October of ye same year, since which time I think I have been a member of ye assembly rising of forty sessions being almost annually chosen during ye revolutionary war.

In ye year 1777 I was appointed justice of ye peace for ye county of Litchfield, and in ye year 1778 I was appointed justice of quorum for ye county, which I held until ye year 1791, when I was appointed judge of ye court, which office I held until ye year 1808; and in ye year 1774 I was appointed judge of probate for ye district of Sharon, which office I held until ye year 1812, being thirty-seven years. In ye year 1774 I was appointed lieutenant-colonel of ye seventeenth regiment of militia of ye State of Connecticut, which office I sustained a number of years during ye revolutionary war, during which time I commanded a regiment at Peekskill, six weeks, and at ye town of Danbury, which being burnt, and likewise commanded a regiment at the capture of Gen. Burgoyne and army, and was in ye battles in ye year 1777.

APPENDIX VII.

Col. William A. Bird, of Buffalo, N. Y., communicates the following:

"On the 23d June, 1812, only the fifth day after war was declared, (with England) my brother was killed by an 18 lb. shot from the frigate 'Belvidere,' the particulars of which were communicated by Commodore Rodgers on his arrival in Boston in October following."

"At the commencement of the action on board the 'President,' frigate, a ball (an 18 pdr.) from the 'Belvidere,' came over the waist cloths of the 'President,' and such was its force that it actually cut off, without throwing them down, the muzzles of several of the muskets, (left there by the marines,) from six to eight inches in length, killed one marine, took off the wrist of one midshipman, (Mr. Montgomery,) killed another, (Mr. Bird,) together with the quarter gunner, and finally lodged upon the deck, and was taken below by the narrator of this and shown the third lieutenant (Mr. Dallas) who took it in his hand and wrote on it with chalk: 'Cousin, I have received your present and return it,' clapped it in the gun himself and fired the piece. It is a remarkable fact, that it actually killed several of the officers and men on the 'Belvidere,' and finally lodged in the cabin of that vessel, where it was afterwards hung up as a globe during the war." (See John Herman Bird, Midshipman U. S. Navy.)

APPENDIX VIII.

Col. Albert Pawling was a native of Dutchess county, N. Y., son of Col. Levi Pawling, an officer of the American army.

Col. Albert Pawling joined the army as second lieutenant in a regiment commanded by Col. James Clinton, and went to Canada, where he served under Gen. Montgomery in the fatal expedition of 1776. In that year he was appointed a brigade-major under Gen. George Clinton, and served as such until 1777, when he was made a major in one of the sixteen additional regiments, under Col. William Malcolm.

Under a mistaken view of the situation, in 1779, Major Pawling sent in his resignation, which the following letter from Washington could not induce him to recall :

"Headquarters, Middlebrook, 2d March, 1779.

"SIR: In your letter of 25th ult. you seem to have misconceived the intention of Congress, upon which is founded your application for leave to resign.

"It is not their purpose to reduce Col. Malcolm's regiment. This will be incorporated with Col. Spencer's, and as you are the only major in the two regiments of course you will be continued.

"After considering the just claims which the country has on good officers, I am persuaded you will suspend your application.

"I am, sir,

"Your most humble serv't,

GEO: WASHINGTON.

"To Major Albert Pawling."

Col. Pawling afterwards served as colonel of a regiment of Swiss for the defense of the New York frontier.

"Pawling avenue," in Troy, the city of his adoption, perpetuates his memory. (See Judge N. B. Sylvester's History of Reusselaer county.)

APPENDIX XIV.

The following sketch of Judge Augustus Porter was prepared by his son, Albert H. Porter, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., who says in that connection :

"It is very imperfect, and only glances at some of the more important events in his long, active and useful life, and his connection with, and the prominent part he bore, in the early history of Western New York, Ohio and the great lakes.

"AUGUSTUS PORTER was born in Salisbury, Conn., January 18, 1769, the second son of Doctor (and Colonel) Joshua Porter, in a family of three sons and three daughters. He received a common English education, including a course of mathematical instruction, and was well qualified for the business he had chosen—that of land surveying—and also for the successful application of water-power, and kindred enterprises, requiring mechanical skill, in which he was for many years engaged.

"In the spring of 1789, at the age of twenty years, he left his native state for Ontario (then Montgomery) county, in the State of New York, as a well qualified surveyor, at first to survey lands in which his father held an interest, and afterwards in the same capacity in the employment of the original purchasers of the lands of Western New York from the State of Massachusetts. He was an assistant surveyor to Andrew Elliott, surveyor-general of the United States, in running the line from Pennsylvania to Lake Ontario, as also of all the lands lying west of Seneca Lake, first sold by the State of Massachusetts to Phelps and Gorham, and afterwards to Robert Morris, the great financier of the war of the Revolution.

"In 1796 Mr. Porter was employed by the Connecticut Land Company as chief surveyor, with a large corps of assistants and other men, to make a survey of the lands on the south shore of Lake Erie, being the reservation made by the State of Connecticut from the grant made by the United States of western territory, called the "Western Reserve," the boundaries of which were described by latitude and longitude, no survey having at that time been made, and the portion covered by Lake Erie not known. No settlements had been made on this territory. It was still an unbroken wilderness, a large portion of which was in possession of unfriendly tribes of Indians.

"Mr. Porter made a traverse of the lake, from the east to the west bounds of the territory, to enable him to estimate the quantity of land within the boundaries not covered by the lake.

"A large number of townships were surveyed during that and the following year, preparatory to their settlement.

"He also surveyed and laid out the town at the mouth of the Cuyhoga river, which received the name of Cleveland in compliment to Gen. Cleveland, the managing agent of the company.

"In 1797-98 Mr. Porter was engaged in behalf of Robert Morris in laying down the boundaries of the lands lying west of Genesee river, purchased of the State of Massachusetts, and to which he had obtained the Indian title, and also in delineating the boundaries of a large portion of the Indian lands which had been sold by Mr. Morris to the Holland Land Company.

"In 1802 he was elected a member of assembly from Ontario county. He continued to reside at Cauandaigue until 1806, when he removed his family to Niagara Falls, N. Y., where he was the first permanent settler, and with which he was identified during the remainder of his life.

"In 1805 Augustus Porter, in connection with his brother, Peter B. Porter, and Benjamin Barton, purchased of the State of New York a large quantity of land in the state reservation along the Niagara river, including the water-power and lands adjacent to the falls.

"In connection with his associates he immediately commenced building mills and making other improvements. They also built a number of vessels on Lakes Erie and Ontario, and with suitable means for transportation around the falls and on the river were the chief forwarders between Oswego and the upper lakes previous to the war of 1812.

"Their vessels were taken by the United States and used for public purposes during the war.

"On its conclusion the business was resumed, and continued until the completion of the Erie canal, when transportation westward, by way of the Niagara river, was abandoned.

"In 1808 the county of Niagara, then including Erie county, was organized, of which Buffalo was the county seat, and Augustus Porter appointed first judge, serving in that office for several years.

"The dwellings, mills and other buildings at the falls were burned by the enemy in 1813, and the inhabitants all fled from the frontier.

"On the return of peace, in 1815, Mr. Porter was engaged for some time in rebuilding his houses and mills, and in making other improvements. He was his own engineer in constructing the bridge across the rapids to Goat Island, a work at that time deemed very dangerous and difficult.

"At an early day he fixed on a plan for an extended use of the great water-power at Niagara Falls, and with this in view retained an exclusive ownership of the land necessary for that purpose. His heirs have since caused this plan to be carried out, by extensive grants of land and water-power of immense value, now fully developed.

"In 1821 Judge Porter was elected a member of the convention for revising the Constitution of the State of New York.

"In 1825 he took an active part in the construction of Black Rock harbor, and in 1836 was among the most liberal and efficient contributors to the Buffalo and Niagara Falls Railroad.

"The latter years of his life were chiefly devoted to his private business, in the cultivation of his lands, and in various local improvements, with his characteristic energy, his mental faculties unimpaired, to the time of his decease in 1849, in the eighty-first year of his age.

"He was a man of untiring industry, sterling integrity and sound religious principles—the peer of the best men of a class for which Western New York was early distinguished, and of which he had been a resident for sixty years, witnessing and participating in its advance from the condition of Indian hunting grounds to that of cultivated fields, pleasant homes and thriving villages and cities, inhabited by a numerous population, enjoying the blessings of a Christian cultivation."

APPENDIX XI.—(See 5591.)

The ancestor of the Halls of Maryland came from England with Lord Baltimore, and settled in Hartford county, at "Shandy Hall," now owned by Mrs. J. G. Barnard. The present mansion having been built in 1701.

Major Henry Hall raised a company in war of 1812. He married Charlotte Ramsay, daughter of Colonel Nathaniel Ramsay, of Cecil county, Maryland.

"At the battle of Brandywine Col. Ramsay crossed the stream in front of Knyphausen, and engaged the Hessian Yagers. His services at Monmouth were of the highest order, and there he was severely wounded. He was a prisoner at Charleston, S. C., 1780. Delegate to Congress from Maryland, 1785-7. One of the pall-bearers at the funeral of Washington. His portrait is in Independence Hall, Philadelphia.

At the battle of Monmouth, Col. Ramsay's services at a critical moment were such as to merit the publicly expressed commendations of Washington.

He was there desperately wounded in a personal encounter with an English officer, and left for dead upon the field, but the object was attained and Col. Ramsay recovered.

At the close of the war Washington appointed him collector of the port of Baltimore, which office he retained until his death, twenty years after.

APPENDIX XII.

Col. Peter B. Porter was distinguished in our annals in civil and martial life; and there are few among us to whom the meed of talents, bravery and patriotism, will be more freely awarded.

He was appointed in 1811, with Gouverneur Morris, Stephen Van Rensselaer, DeWitt Clinton, William North, Simeon DeWitt, Thomas Eddy, Robert R. Livingston and Robert Fulton, the first commissioners in relation to inland navigation—being the incipient step that led in the sequel to the noble works of art and improvement which have contributed so largely (whatever excesses may have been committed) to the glory and prosperity of the state.

Their labors were suspended, however, by the war of 1812; and for these civic duties Gen. Porter exchanged the privations and dangers of the frontier campaigns. Residing then at Black Rock, he was in the midst of the most eventful and stirring of the border scenes. He rallied the hastily-gathered volunteers, who repelled the first invasion of that place in midsummer, 1813, and shared, at the head of his corps, with intrepidity and skill, in those brilliant and memorable affairs of the succeeding year, the battles of Chippewa and Bridgewater, and the sortie of Fort Erie.

At the close of the war he was appointed Secretary of State in place of Jacob Rutsen Van Rensselaer, but he declined the appointment, having been elected to Congress the previous year. Near the close of his congressional term he was appointed commissioner under the British treaty to run the boundary line between the United States and Canada. In 1817 he was the antagonist candidate to DeWitt Clinton in the democratic caucus held for the nomination for governor, and at the election received a few votes cast by politicians in the city of New York, who refused to acquiesce in the nomination of Mr. Clinton.

In the political controversies of his time Gen. Porter was a prominent participator until his retirement from public life with Mr. Adams in 1829. Under that administration, and for the last year of it, he discharged the duties of Secretary of War. He was warmly attached to Mr. Clay, and was related to him by the marriage of his second wife.

A frontier resident during the last forty years; possessed of large estates on the border; he is identified with the history of Western New York, and with its gigantic progress in the great elements of social and physical development.

As a public man he was sagacious, shrewd and able, though to ordinary observers, in latter years, the impression was one of heaviness, approaching to dullness. In his military career he was distinguished by high qualities of command, and by undoubted coolness and courage.

Since 1838 he has occupied his new and elegant residence at the Falls—in the midst, as it were, of the scenes that have become classic ground to every American, and in the presence and within the perpetual roar of the great cataract.

Gen. Porter died, the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser states, in the 71st year of his age.

APPENDIX XIII.—Col. PETER AUGUSTUS PORTER.

To the Editor of the New York Times:

In a recent issue of the Times the late Peter B. Porter, recently deceased at Niagara Falls, is mentioned as a son of the late Gen. Peter B. Porter, the distinguished soldier of the war of 1812, and in 1828 Secretary of War under President Adams. He was not a son of the general, but of his brother Judge Augustus Porter. "Among the earliest of the pioneers in Western New York were two brothers, Augustus and Peter B. Porter, sons of Dr. Joshua Porter, of Salisbury, Conn." (F. S. Cozzens' eulogy before the Century Club on the Life and Services of Col. Peter A. Porter.) The lustre of military services alone was wanting to the elder brother, but in the narrower sphere of his home—that "Western New York," of which he had been one of the "pioneers," and among the most energetic and useful, the work of converting it from a wilderness to what it now is, Judge Porter was scarcely less eminent than his distinguished brother. He died full of years and honors in (I think) 1848—a few years after his younger brother. The excellent and distinguished gentleman recently deceased—the younger son of Judge Porter—bore the general's name of Peter Buel; but it would be a wrong to the memory of the only son of Gen. Porter to forget that he fell on the battle-field of Cold Harbor, an illustrious example of that devotion to duty of which our civil war furnished so many beautiful exemplars. Born to a fortune, educated in the first learned institutions of Europe and America, endowed by nature with beauty of person and brilliancy of intellect, which eminently fitted him for social enjoyment and distinction, surrounded by everything that could make life enviable, he deliberately renounced all these for the service of his country in her hour of need. Before leaving his home, "feeling to its full extent the probability that he might not return from the path of duty on which he had entered," he solemnly recorded, in his "last will and testament," his motives in the following words:

"I can say with truth that I have entered on the course of danger with no ambitious aspirations, nor with the idea that I am fitted by nature or experience to be of any important service to the government; but in obedience to the call of duty, demanding every citizen to contribute what he could in means, labor or life to sustain the government of his country—a sacrifice made the more willingly by me when I consider how singularly benefited I have been by the institutions of the land, and that up to this time all the blessings of life have been showered upon me beyond what usually falls to the lot of man."

Soon after he had entered the military service, and while in command of his regiment at Fort Mifflin, he was nominated for Secretary of State of New York. In declining this appointment he gives, besides the original motives which brought him into the field, the following reason: "I left home in command of a regiment composed mainly of the sons of friends and neighbors, committed to my care. I can hardly ask for my discharge while theirs cannot be granted."

He fell on the 3d of June, 1864, pierced by six bullets, while leading his regiment up to the enemy's works at Cold Harbor.

Believing that the memory of such a life and death should be cherished: that the State and city of New York, which (each separately) made public acknowledgment of the eminent services of the father, should be proud, too, of the son, I have sketched these lines, drawing most of the details from the eloquent "eulogy," already referred to. It is worthy of remark, that, in the mother of the wife of Dr. Joshua Porter (Abigail Buell), Col. Porter had, with the general (now President of the United States) who commanded our armies on the battle-field where he fell, a common maternal ancestor. B.
